Lancaster Watch Weekend to Debut in September, Celebrating America's Horological Heritage

August 19, 2025

Lancaster, PA – Watch enthusiasts and collectors from across the country will gather in Lancaster, PA, for the inaugural Lancaster Watch Weekend on September 26–28, 2025.

Lancaster is the perfect setting for this event. The county's rich history of watchmaking perpetuates in so many ways. Visitors will immerse themselves, getting hands-on with watchmaking, seeing historic horological treasures up close, and enjoying the well-preserved historic building that helped perpetuate the Lancaster legacy.

Lancaster Watch Weekend is open to all, though museum entry fees apply and some of the events require a reservation. Hosted by the National Watch & Clock Museum, Hamilton Watch Boutique, RGM Watch Co., and Brent Miller Jewelers, the three-day program will feature exhibits, horological experiences, guided tours, and presentations that celebrate the past, present, and future of watchmaking.

Events will take place at the National Watch & Clock Museum in Columbia, the Hamilton Watch Boutique in the historic Bowman building on N. Duke St. in Lancaster, Brent Miller Jewelers on Manheim Pike in Lancaster, RGM Watch Co. in Mount Joy, and Clock Towers Condominiums on Columbia Ave., Lancaster for a Hamilton old factory tour.

National groups RedBar and the Horological Society of New York will also participate in the event, bringing their communities of passionate collectors and watch lovers into the mix.

A full schedule for Lancaster Watch Weekend is available at www.lancasterwatchweekend.com.

"This is more than just a watch event," said Roland Murphy, founder of RGM Watch Co. "It's a celebration of craftsmanship, community, and the remarkable horological legacy that lives on in Lancaster County."

The National Watch & Clock Museum is run by the National Association of Watch & Clock Collectors (NAWCC), a nonprofit member organization dedicated to preserving and promoting the art and science of timekeeping. Recently updated and expanded displays include the Hamilton and Bulova exhibits, the history of wristwatches exhibit, and the Public Time gallery. The museum is located at 514 Poplar St., Columbia, and is open to the public on Tuesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, visit museum.nawcc.org or call 717-684-8261.
